Exercise 13: Finding Resources

3. What will the minimum wage be in the county in which you reside on July 1, 2018 and on July 1, 2022?

4. Assume you work full time and you are paid the minimum wage. Calculate your monthly and yearly gross income.

- a. Multiply the minimum wage by 174 hours to find your monthly gross income (there are an average of 174 work hours in a month if working full-time).

- b. Multiply the minimum wage by 2,080 hours to find your yearly gross income (there are an average of 2,080 work hours in a year if working full-time).

Exercise 14: Budget Planning

This exercise can help you identify where your income will go, and help you understand how much you will need to earn to pay your expenses. For this exercise, we are assuming 25 percent of your wages will be deducted to pay taxes.

The budget sheet provides an approximate low, medium and high amount for each expense. If you have a roommate, and are frugal, your expenses may tend to fall into the low category. If you are less frugal, perhaps live on your own, enjoy eating out and generally spending more money, your expenses may fall into the high category more often.

1. First, select an occupation and look up its average hourly wage in the Career Guide (page 45-64).
2. Multiply the hourly wage by 174 hours to find your monthly gross income (there are an average of 174 work hours in a month if working full-time).

Name _____

3. Calculate your net monthly income.
4. Estimate how you may spend your money on a monthly basis by entering the amount you think you'll spend on each expense category. A low – medium – high range is provided for each expense. You can use an amount other than those listed if you have information about a particular expense.
5. Finally, add up your expenses and subtract the total monthly expenses from your net monthly income.
6. If the difference is greater than $0, your income is enough to pay your expenses. If it is less than $0, your expenses are greater than your income and you need to adjust your expenses and savings until they are equal and your budget is balanced. If you are not sure how much your expenses may be, you can search the internet or ask your family for assistance to estimate expenses.

Income per Month
Monthly gross income	$
Taxes (monthly income x 0.25)	$
Net monthly income (monthly gross income - taxes)	$
Expenses per Month
	Low	Medium	High	Your Expenses
Rent or home mortgage				$
Utilities (electricity, water, cable, internet, etc.)				$
Phone				$
Food - eating at home				$
Food - eating out				$
Entertainment and recreation				$
Clothing				$
Car - payments, gas, maintenance, insurance, etc.				$
Public transportation				$
Healthcare (insurance, doctor visits, supplies)				$
Personal care (toiletries, haircuts, etc.)				$
Student education loan payments				$
Miscellaneous (pet food and care, donations, gym fees, anything else you can think of)				$
Savings				$
Total monthly expenses				$
Difference (net monthly income - monthly expenses)				$

Exercise 15: Budget Planning Reaction

The difference between an expected budget and how much a person can actually afford to spend can be shocking. Consider your calculations in this exercise and respond to the following questions.

1. Are there any expense categories where you may have under-budgeted (or inserted an amount that is probably less than the actual expense amount)? If so, what are they? Do you expect to have any expenses that are not included in the worksheet?

Under-budgeted	Expense not included on worksheet
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

2. Would you easily be able to cover the monthly expenses of your expected budget with the net monthly income of your chosen career? If not, what are some ways you could reduce your expenses to be able to work in the career of your choice without having financial difficulties?

3. Find your chosen career in the Career Guide (pages 45-64) and look at the wage for less experienced workers. Does it differ significantly from the wage for more experienced workers? How might this affect your budget early in your career?

4. Would you be willing to change career paths in order to earn enough money for your budget, or would you prefer to modify your budget in order to work in your preferred career? Why?
