Oregon's total personal income ranked 25th in the nation in 2024, matching its 2023 rank. Data on personal income comes from the Bureau of Economic Analysis – a division of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

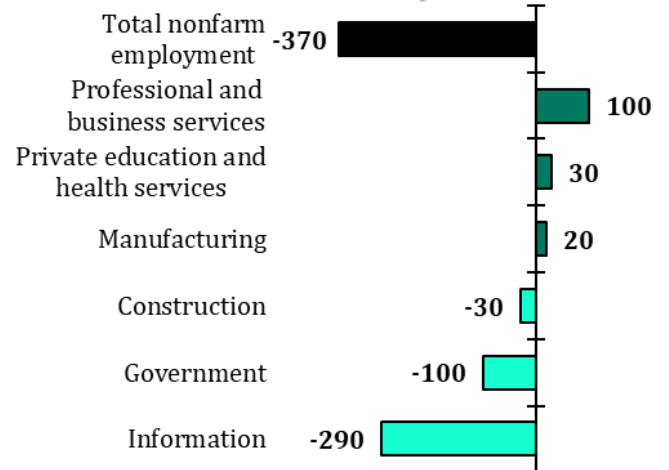

State personal income captures total income within a state and is the sum of three main components: net earnings (wages, salaries, employer contributions); personal current transfer receipts (retirement, Medicare, unemployment insurance); and dividends, interest, and rent.

Growth in personal income for the U.S. overall averaged 5.0% in 2024. For individual states in 2024, growth ranged from a 0.1% increase in North Dakota, to a 6.9% increase in North Carolina. Personal income grew by 5.2% in Oregon in 2024, which was tied for the 25th fastest in the nation.

Oregon's PCPI relative to the U.S. showed a slow upward trend from 2011 to 2024. In 2011, Oregon's PCPI was 88.0% and by 2024 it had reached 97.6% of the U.S.'s PCPI. Population growth works to drive PCPI downward, while income growth works to drive PCPI upward. Oregon's 2024 population growth rate was 0.4%, ranking near the bottom across the U.S. Oregon's 2024 total personal income growth rate was 25th in the nation, while Oregon's PCPI growth rate ranked 15th.
